

Mission Team Structure

Mission Projects

Local churches, associations and NC Baptist Men generate mission projects. Students and their leaders from participating churches across North Carolina complete the mission projects. To do this successfully we combine the efforts of paid summer staff, dedicated volunteers and youth leaders who bring their youth to Deep Impact. The following will help you understand the flow of how mission projects are done successfully and how you can help make this the best experience possible for your group.

Training

It is important to understand the training that will take place prior to your group going out on the mission sites during Deep Impact. To make this training possible and effective we need youth leaders to agree to fill two important positions on each team. The Team Leader and Team Motivator positions are described below. Please indicate on the Team Roster form who from your group is willing to fill these positions. Remember all adult leaders will serve on a team.

Team Leader

The Team Leader from each mission team will be the key person on each team to make sure the mission project is completed. The Team Leader will be the key person of contact to and from the Deep Impact staff. The Team Leader will be the key contact person on the mission site and will supervise the site and the students and other leaders on the site.

Team Motivator

The Team Motivator for each mission team will be the care person for the students. The Team Motivator will keep up with the medical forms, make sure the team has its lunches, build and keep morale, and care for the general well-being of the team. They will encourage students to stay involved with their mission team.

ALL ADULTS AND YOUTH MUST CHOOSE FROM THE FOLLOWING FOR THEIR MISSION PROJECT ASSIGNMENTS

The main purpose of these ministries is to build relationships with the children and have the opportunity to share the love of Christ with the children.
